

JACKSON COUNTY

Florida

JACKSON COUNTY

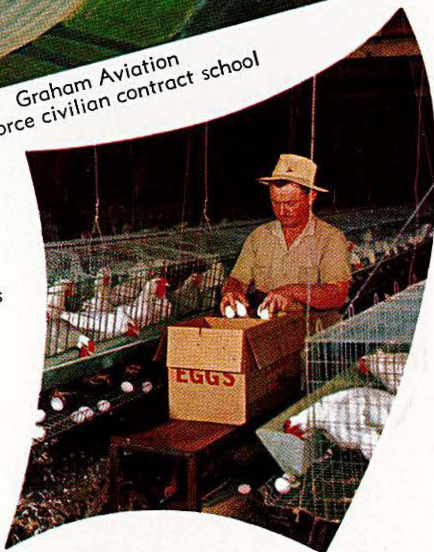

Florida

Aerial view of
Marianna, county seat

Graham Aviation
Air Force civilian contract school

Caged layers
Graceville

ALFORD

BASCOM

CAMPBELLTON

COMPASS LAKE

COTTONDALE

CYPRESS

GRACEVILLE

GRAND RIDGE

GREENWOOD

KYNESVILLE

MALONE

MARIANNA

ROUND LAKE

SNEADS

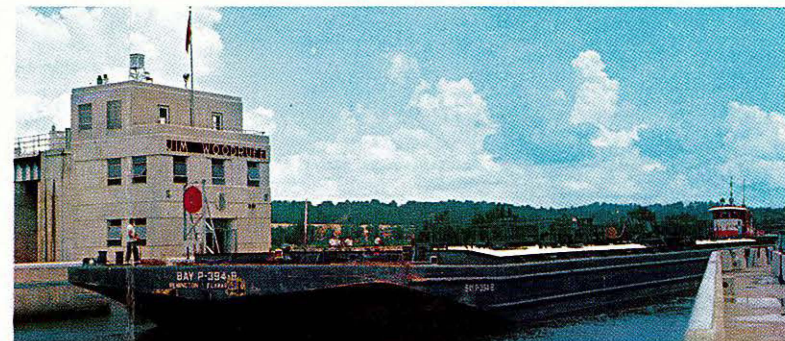

TE LIBRARY

EFD
Jackson County

Lake Seminole's
37,000 acres
offers fresh water fishing at its best

River
Navigation on Apalachicola
Waterway to Gulf.

Jim Woodruff Dam and Lake Seminole,
near Sneads

Angus beef cattle, Greenwood

Corn is a major money crop

As the distribution and geographic center of a region comprising all of Northwest Florida and parts of Alabama and Georgia, Jackson County's influence is felt by a half-million people. This is the area designated by the New York Times in 1957 as "Industry's New Frontier."

In the pivot center of a great region in this wonderful section of Florida, Jackson County is a thriving agricultural and business community of small cities and towns. Nearby, but apart from the crowded playground and tourist centers, Jackson County offers you gracious living . . . economic well-being . . . and recreational advantages brought together nowhere in Florida on such a large and balanced scale.

While livestock and agricultural crops are the principal basis of her economy, Jackson County boasts a growing trend toward industrial development . . . and is industrially ambitious. Her strategic location, unlimited water, excess labor, abundant electric power, transportation, civic cooperation, and other salient factors are well worth consideration.

In addition to her thriving communities with their beautiful homes, churches and schools, Jackson County offers you outstanding recreational facilities . . . and a side-by-side rich blend of modern living with traditional Old South culture and charm. You can fish, swim, water ski and sun yourself at sparkling springs resorts or on nearby famous Gulf beaches . . . see exquisite nature-made lighted caverns festooned with fantastic formations . . . and visit on leisurely weekends all of the playground centers in this fabulous Florida. You can hunt deer, turkey, quail, dove, squirrel and ducks and geese with amazing success, virtually within sight of bustling community life.

Marianna is the county seat, approximately 8,500 population, and is the largest city on the Old Spanish Trail between Tallahassee and Pensacola. It is the home of Chipola Junior College, Florida Caverns, Florida School for Boys, and Graham Air Base, one of the important contract flying schools of the U. S. Air Force.

New, modern, fully accredited Chipola Junior College at Marianna is state's finest. Founded in 1947

Water skiing is a popular sport in numerous, sparkling clear lakes in Jackson County

Dairying is a growing industry

Peanuts outrank all crops here

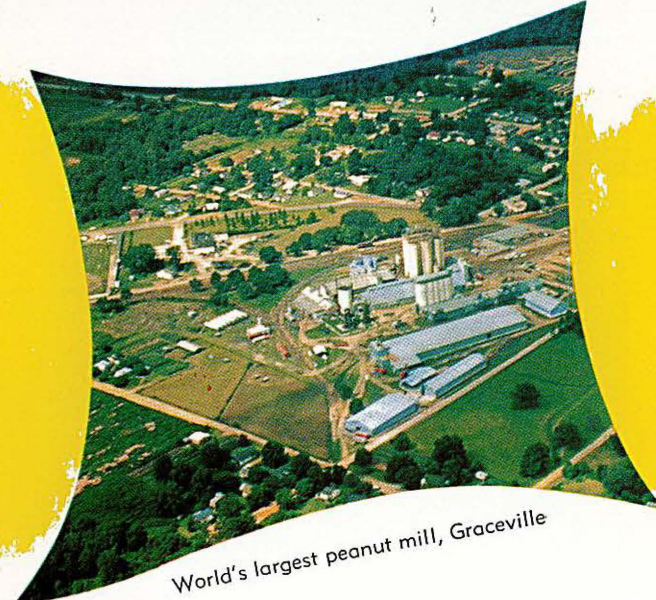

Jackson County is Florida's biggest pork producer

Fine watermelons are a specialty

Compass Lake ski pinups

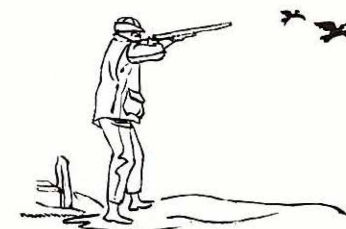

World's largest peanut mill, Graceville

Two railroads, an air line, a myriad of bus schedules, and 15 paved highways . . . including the Old Spanish Trail and Interstate Highway U. S. 90, bid you to come to Jackson County to see us. In Jackson County and this Sunshine State, full of unique attractions, you have an easy manner of living and an equable pleasant climate that assures your good health, happiness and well-being. Opportunity to establish your business, profession or industry with much success and profit are other good reasons for you to come to Jackson County.

A great place to keep cool — Beach and swimming area at crystal clear, scenic, natural Blue Springs

Full civic cooperation and a spirit of genuine friendliness and hospitality from municipal and county governments, Chamber of Commerce, rural improvement and industrial development corporations, service clubs, railroads, utilities and others, bid you welcome to Jackson County. Your business and professional needs will be served, your children will enjoy our schools, your religious and cultural life will be stimulated, and you will want to build a home and live here. For further information write the Jackson County Board of County Commissioners or the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce.

North Florida's Greatest Agricultural County